

I feel that the FCC should continue to regulate broad band service so that small ISP's like Sonic.net can continue to provide excellent service at a reasonable price.